Overview

This report covers questions scored from 2021-01-01 to 2020-01-19. There were a total of 114 questions scored.

2020 Performance

- Mean Brier Score: +0.32 an increase from 2019's 0.23
- Mean of the Median: +0.35 an increase from 2019's 0.29
- Mean Accuracy: -0.03 a decrease from 2019's -0.05.

Lessons Learned

- 1. Moderate your forecast, particularly in uncertain environments.
- 2. Base rates are better than special circumstances, 75%/25%.
- 3. In politics, base rates are often a better guide than polls.
- 4. Do your own research.
- 5. If the question resolves around people, don't assume the logical answer is the right one.
- 6. If there are institutional processes, politics, and other important factors in play that you don't understand, be conservative.
- 7. R Script for generating probabilities from historical prices is better than almost everyone's stock price forecasts.
- 8. Know the players and how their involvement changes the base rate.
- 9. Don't make extreme predictions against an incumbent/experienced politician.
- 10. Famine questions are always about the number of famine questions and are low probability, go $\leq 10\%$.
- 11. Look for the thing you haven't accounted for, e.g., stock split.
- 12. Do the work. For example, people don't take the time to assess the odds for awards shows, e.g., SAG Awards, Grammys, Oscars, Golden Globe, etc. There are many types of questions where this is true. If you do the work, you'll come out ahead.
- 13. Some questions are going to increase your Brier score, even if you do comparatively well on them, i.e., questions with a lot of options.
- 14. Base rate, when off base rate look for reverting to the mean.
- 15. Sometimes a partial counts, e.g., symbolic Hajj.
- 16. Deflation/high inflation are low probability, like famine.
- 17. Bet the favorite.
- 18. Get ahead of where the news is pointing.
- 19. If a question has an exponential curve, put an exponent on your estimates because you are likely projecting a line.

Criteria for Evaluating Performance

Selecting questions for closer evaluation, I picked questions that met the following criteria:

- 1. Brier Score > .75, or
- 2. Accuracy was .15 higher or lower than the median (0.05 higher than 2019)

Scores are sorted from worst accuracy to best.

Question Review

1. Which presidential candidate will win Florida?

Two forecasts of 80% and 90% for Democratic candidate based on polls. I forecasted without doing much research, a mistake.

2. Between 25 July 2020 and 25 November 2020, will a lethal confrontation in Libya result in five or more fatalities for Egyptian armed forces?

I got wrapped up in the news cycle and deviated from base rate on this question and paid for it.

3. What will be the closing value of the S&P 500 Index on 19 June 2020 relative to its closing value on 19 March 2020?

In the middle of a pandemic, a logical forecast is that the stock market would tank.

4. What will be the closing price of Tesla stock on 22 September 2020?

Burned by a price question that featured a stock split I hadn't accounted for.

5. Will there be 12 or more Chapter 9 municipal bankruptcy filings in 2020?

Forecast: "Revenue shortfalls + pandemic expense = Chapter 9 for > 12 municipalities in time frame." Perfectly logical, and wrong. I think this really points to that if you don't understand the processes, as I don't with filing Chapter 9 municipal bankruptcy, it's better to be conservative.

6. Who will win the 2020 South Carolina Democratic primary?

Underestimated Biden after losses in the first few primaries. I don't think I'd play this one differently in a similar situation.

7. What will Uber's end-of-day market capitalization be on 31 December 2020?

Uber's valuation is crazy. I still think so. But, Mr. Market is going crazy on this one, which suggests I shouldn't try to forecast stock market prices outside of mechanical historical probabilities.

8. Between 15 May 2020 and 30 November 2020, will any Group III U.S. air carrier file for bankruptcy?

The obvious answer was the wrong one. I should have looked closer at their financials and the CARES Act.

9. The 2020 Golden Globes

I averaged -0.11 on the six Golden Globe questions using Gold Derby. Half of them were blown 0.395, 0.208, 0.046 and the other half were -0.247, -0.383, -0.695. These questions will increase your Brier score and are extremely difficult to forecast. Yet, it ended up as a win. Forecast these in the future, or no?

10. Before 13 July 2020, will the United States and Afghan Taliban sign a peace agreement?

I went with the base rate rather than factor in the Trump administration would announce a PR peace deal, which was a mistake. But, for future questions, going with the base rate, as I did here, is still a good idea.

11. Who will win the 2020 Iowa Democratic caucuses?

Pete Buttigieg? I guess the lesson here is that Iowa caucuses are difficult to predict, either avoid them or go conservative.

12. Will President Trump's approval rating be lower on 5 August 2020 than it was on 1 July 2020, according to FiveThirtyEight?

In retrospect, this was a really dumb forecast on my part. The July 1st approval numbers were at a all-time high. Why did I think they would go higher? I don't think I did the research on this one.

13. Before 28 July 2020, will Saudi Arabia announce the cancellation or suspension of the Hajj pilgrimage, scheduled for 28 July 2020 to 2 August 2020?

Got burned by the symbolic hajj.

14. Who will win the U.S. Senate election for Maine in 2020?

Thought Collins was toast. Don't make extreme predictions against an incumbant.

15. How many total major hurricanes (Category 3 or higher) will occur in the Atlantic Ocean in the 2020 hurricane season, according to the National Hurricane Center?

I went against the increased forecasts expected and went with the base rate. If I did that for 10 years, I expect it would work out. But, it isn't always going to work out, as it didn't here.

16. Grammy Questions

There were four Grammy questions: 0.186, -0.057, -0.061, -0.159. So a net of -0.091. But, because there are so many options, it's going to increase your Brier score no matter what you do. I think Grammy's are worth doing in conjuctoin with a handicapping site.

17. For the month of June 2020, what will be the annual rate of inflation for the eurozone?

I thought the pandemic would cause deflation. Maybe it is a good idea to assume that something that rarely happens won't?

18. Will the UN declare that a famine exists in any part of Ethiopia, Kenya, Somalia, Tanzania, or Uganda in 2020?

The easy answer to famine questions is to always give it low probability. The math for a break-even forecast is easy. Brier score for forecasting 2%: 0.0008 / 1.9208. So, the average of 20 questions is 0.0968. Official famines rarely get called. For 10%: 0.005 / 1.805, it still takes 20 questions to bring the average down to <0.10. These are questions that are more about the number of questions and the likelihood and one will be yes, and that likelihood is always low.

19. When will Lebanon's parliament give a vote of confidence to a new government?

Another installment of don't make extreme predictions on the politics of countries you don't live in and don't understand.

20. Which horse will win the Saudi Cup?

In horse racing, it's probably best to go with the favorite.

21. Before 1 January 2021, will a United States Supreme Court seat be vacated?

Played this with the acturial tables. I wouldn't do anything differently.

22. Before 1 July 2020, will Nepal release its 2020 census results for Indian rhinoceros?

Some contingent of the crowd failed to update their forecasts in light of the information that Nepal cancelled this due to COVID-19.

23. Will Bernie Sanders win a majority of Democratic pledged delegates on Super Tuesday?

In retrospect, it is obvious that this had zero chance.

24. What will be Airbnb's end-of-day market capitalization on its first day of public trading?

I was ahead on the news that Airbnb would be late.

25. 2020 Oscars

For the six Oscars questions, I got 0.069, -0.06, -0.186, -0.192, -0.249, -0.356. Again, I played the odds using Gold Derby. I think most of the crowd were going with what they liked.

26. For any seven consecutive day period between 1 October and 31 December 2020, will there be 200,000 or more combined total confirmed new cases of COVID-19 in the United States?

I learned respiratory epidemics tend to come in waves, six months apart, second usually worse than the first. So, I forecast this at 100%.

27. Who will win the 2020 Nevada Democratic caucuses?

Called Bernie early, thinking he'd have momentum.

28. Who will win the 2020 Dominican Republic presidential election?

Simply followed early polls.

29. Screen Actors Guild

There were six questions, -0.018, -0.02, -0.064, -0.097, -0.139, -0.224. Apparently, SAG Awards are much more predictable than Grammys.

30. Who will win the 2020 New Hampshire Democratic primary?

It seemed patently obvious that Bernie Sanders was going to win New Hampshire.

31. Before 1 January 2021, will the Council of the European Union request the consent of the European Parliament to conclude a European Union-United Kingdom trade agreement?

It seemed obvious that a trade deal was going to take longer to negotiate during a pandemic. But, perhaps I got lucky.

32. Who will win the 2020 United States presidential election?

I took a big risk with this one, largely because reelecting Trump seemed like a bad idea.

33. Before 1 July 2020, will SpaceX launch its first crewed mission into orbit?

They seemed like they were on track, and the crowd has an irrational dislike of Elon Musk.

34. Will the United States experience at least one quarter of negative real GDP growth in 2020?

I was in this one early on the logic that an extended expansion was historically an anomoly and was expecting a return to mean.

35. Will the monthly U.S. civilian unemployment rate (U3) reach or exceed 4.0% for any month before 1 November 2020?

Same as previous.

36. How many countries other than the U.S. and Brazil will have more than one million total confirmed cases of COVID-19 as of 31 December 2020?

Very few people really understand exponential growth. This question illustrates this point.

37. Before 3 November 2020, will federal legislation to provide at least $100 billion in direct financial assistance to state and/or local governments become law?

I had read somewere that the reason Mitch McConnell wasn't involved in the negotiations over COVID-19 relief was because he didn't have the votes. Something like 20 Republican Senators were against any kind of additional aid. So, I went low when everyone else went high, thinking COVID-19 relief had to happen.

38. Will Benjamin Netanyahu cease to be the prime minister of Israel before 1 January 2021?

I could have done better. I bet against Bibi even though I knew it was dumb to bet against Bibi.
